ABSTRACT

Programs for the training of library technical assistants exist in more than 31 states of the United States and six provinces of Canada. Through the questionnaire developed to survey the status of these training programs a total of 134 have been identified: 118 in the U.S. and 16 in Canada. This directory of schools offering training programs for library aides is arranged in two alphabetical groups--by state for the U.S. and by province for Canada. Within each state or province entries are arranged alphabetically by institution. Each includes the name, address and telephone number of the institution; name and title of the person in charge of the program; the title of the program; the year it began; and course numbers, titles and credit. PREFACE

The questionnaire used by the Council on Library Technology for this third edition of the Directory was devised to survey the status of Library Technical Assistant Programs in the United States and Canada. The Directory includes general information about each program; i.e., a listing of course offerings, as well as information about the characteristics of each program, the faculty, and the students. For the completeness and accuracy of each program, the editor has had to rely entirely upon the respondents.

The editor is grateful for the cooperation of the many directors of Library Technical Assistant programs who took the time to answer the somewhat lengthy questionnaire. Her gratefulness extends to those directors of programs and to her many colleagues in COLT who brought to her attention information about newly developing programs that might not otherwise have been included. Also gratefully acknowledged is the assistance and advice of Dr. Fritz Veit, Director of Libraries, Chicago State University, and of Sister Mary Chrysantha Rudnik, CSSF, President of COLT during 1971. A very special thanks is due to Mrs. Anne Roberts, the editor's clerical assistant at Kennedy-King College Library.

INTRODUCTION

Programs for the training of Library Technical Assistants exist in more than thirty-one states of the United States and at least six provinces of Canada. Through the questionnaire developed to survey the status of these training programs a total of 134 have been identified: 118 programs in the United States, 16 in Canada. Just before the completion of the Directory, the editor became aware of another LTA program which will begin in Spring of 1972 at the University of Rhode Island, Division of University Extension.

Library Technical Assistant programs are developing now at a rather slow but steady rate. This is in marked contrast to the period between 1967 and 1970. During these years, 77 new LTA programs were begun: 20 in 1967, 22 in 1968, 14 in 1969, and 19 in 1970. The year 1971 marked the decline of the "instant programs." Only seven new programs were developed in 1971 and four planned for 1972. In examining the brochures supplied by the responding institutions, the editor feels that, without exception, the more recent LTA programs have been developed in conformity to the ALA guidelines.[1]

Programs Discontinued

Despite the steady growth of LTA programs throughout the country there are an alarming number of programs gradually being discontinued. The period between 1968 and 1971 saw the demise of twenty-nine programs. These figures include LTA programs listed in the earlier editions of the Directory as well as those programs not reported previously. Three institutions discontinued their programs in 1968, two in 1969, six in 1970, and nine in 1971. Dates indicating year of discontinuance were unavailable for the additional nine programs.

Almost all respondents listed one of two reasons, or both, for the discontinuance of their programs; namely, lack of student enrollment and lack of job opportunity. A few institutions listed rather specific reasons. One private institution stated that its program was discontinued because it could not compete with the tuition free public junior colleges in the area which had established programs. Another felt that, at the state level, little support had been given to LTA programs. There was no job category of library technician. The LTA program was replaced with a series of courses offered by the institution's Continuing Education Division. Students taking these courses were successful in passing civil service examinations for the position of Library Aide or Library Assistant.

Enrollment

During the academic year 1970/71 over 3500 students in the United States were enrolled in LTA programs. Almost two-thirds of these were part-time students. This is in direct contrast to the enrollment pattern in Canada. In the academic year 1970/71, 733 Canadian students were enrolled in LTA programs. Of these, 588 were full-time students, 145 were part-time students. Only fifty-nine percent of the respondents gave figures for the total number of students enrolled in their programs since their inception to 1971. Twenty-seven percent of those responding could only estimate the number. The best estimate that can be made for the total number of students enrolled in LTA programs up to 1971 is 8200 students. Of this number, only four percent are male students.

Placement and Salaries

In this category the responses were much fewer than anticipated. Only a small percentage of the responding institutions could provide accurate information about the number of students that had been employed as a direct result of being enrolled in the LTA program or about the beginning salaries paid LTAs. Such records are not kept. However, it should be noted that many institutions with the more recent LTA programs could supply such data. Perhaps this is a clear indication that, for the present, more attention has been given to the evolvement of LTA programs than to job placement. Despite the poor response to this segment of the questionnaire, the information has been tabulated and appears in Table III of Appendix A.

Research

The task of gathering and compiling data for this Directory has taken more than half a year. Information from responding institutions appearing in the exhibits and in the tables has been recorded without alteration. The questions were designed to provide more information about certain aspects of LTA programs than had been previously obtained. In some instances the respondents indicated that, from the records they kept, certain questions could not be answered. This is particularly true in the area of placement and salaries. No attempt has been made to analyze in depth the statistics from the questionnaires. Billy N. Hensley[2] utilizing some of the data from the questionnaires returned for this Directory as well as conducting his own research, has included such a study in his survey of LTA programs. Both his study and this Directory should be used to ascertain an understanding of the status of LTA programs.

ARRANGEMENT OF THE DIRECTORY

Exhibits are arranged in two alphabetical groups--by state for those of the United States and by province for those of Canada. Within each state or province exhibits are then arranged alphabetically by institution. Each exhibit includes the name, address, and telephone number of the institution; the name and title of the person in charge of the program; the title of the program; the year in which the program began (an asterisk [*] indicates that the information for that exhibit was obtained from the second edition rather from direct response to the current questionnaire). A listing of course number, course title, and course credit completes the exhibit. Each exhibit is numbered consecutively through the Directory.

Two appendices are included. Appendix A consists of three tables: Table I - Characteristics of Programs; Table II - Enrollment and Recognition Granted for Completion of Program; Table III - Placement and Salaries. Institutions are identified by exhibit numbers rather than by name. A list of these numbers and the institutions they refer to precedes Table I. The number of institutions appearing in each table varies. Institutions not responding to questions pertaining to information appearing in the table have been omitted from that table. This is particularly noticeable in Table III. Appendix B - Additions and Changes Since the Second Edition is a list of programs identified as new to this edition, as omitted from this edition for various reasons, and as reported in other reference sources.

However, since the closing of the course the Continuing Education Division has continued it by offering courses to interested people. There is no recognition as to certification etc., but most of the individuals who take the courses offered are able to take a Civil Service examination and qualify as Library Aides or assistants." COUNCIL ON LIBRARY TECHNOLOGY

Library. Catalog Dept. Rm. 311C
Chicago State College
6800 South Stewart Avenue
Chicago, IL 60621

April 1, 1971

Dear Colleague:

Enclosed is a questionnaire designed to provide information about your Library Technical Assistant Program for the 1971 Council on Library Technology (COLT) Directory of Programs in Progress or Projected. Please fill out and return this questionnaire on or before April 20, 1971. The Directory will be printed as soon as data can be compiled.

Although the questionnaire is lengthy, we hope you will take time to answer all the questions, or as many as possible. Your answers will tell us a grea deal about your specific program and provide much needed research data about LTA programs in general. Those Institutions whose program is in the plannin stages are requested to answer as many questions as are pertinent to the program and/or to write a brief statement about the proposed program.

A copy of the information which appeared in the 1969 edition of the Director is enclosed for the convenience of those Institutions listed in that edition We hope it will serve as a ready reference for you.

Thank you for the efforts you make to cooperate in this project.

Sincerely yours,

Noel R. Grego
Editor, 1971 COLT Directory

APPENDIX B

ADDITIONS AND CHANGES SINCE THE SECOND EDITION

ADDITIONS AND CHANGES SINCE THE SECOND EDITION

In this section are listed those institutions which are included in this third edition of the Directory for the first time as well as those which had been listed in the second edition but are now deleted. Institutions included in the supplementary lists to the second edition are listed here as new programs. Also reported in this edition are institutions cited as having LTA programs by two other sources; namely, the eighth edition of American Junior Colleges[1] and Ferguson Guide to Two-year College Programs.[2] Institutions listed in these sources were sent questionnaires and the status of their programs is noted.

Institutions reported in American Junior Colleges as offering LTA programs but who did not respond to the questionnaire are listed separately. The status of these programs could not be verified.

[2] Ferguson Guide to Two-year College Programs for Technicians and Specialists. Chicago: Ferguson Publishing Company, 1971.

The status of LTA programs are indicated by code numbers which are to be interpreted as follows:

1 Added in this edition: new program.

2 Deleted. Program discontinued or projected program never materialized.

3 Deleted. Program suspended.

4 Discontinued. Program not previously listed. Initiated and discontinued since second edition.

5 Listed in another source as offering an LTA program, but actually does not have a program.

6 Listed in another source but did not respond to the questionnaire.
